```python
import pandas as pd import ExcelGeneration as eg from datetime import datetime

def run_backtest(test_date, timeframe):
    print(f"--- Running Backtest for Date: {test_date} | Timeframe:
{timeframe}m ---")

    # Generate filename based on date (e.g., 22nd May -> 22052026)
    try:
        date_obj = pd.to_datetime(test_date)
        file_date_str = date_obj.strftime("%d%m%Y") except:
        file_date_str = test_date.replace("-", "")  # Fallback

    csv_name = f"backtest_trade_book_{file_date_str}.csv"

    # Logic simulation (Skeleton)
    trade_id = f"{test_date}_{timeframe}_001"

    # Example Entry Logic
    entry_row = {
        "trade_id": trade_id,
        "time_ist": "09:15",
        "event": "BUY CALL",
        "symbol": "NIFTY",
        "option_type": "CE",
        "price": 100.0,
        "trailing_sl": 90.0,
        "pnl_rs": 0,
        "pnl_pct": 0,
        "outcome": "OPEN",
        "rsi_1m": "60",
        "supertrend_1m": "BULL",
    }
    eg.write_to_book(csv_name, entry_row)

    # Example Exit Logic
    exit_row = {
        "trade_id": trade_id,
        "time_ist": "10:00",
        "event": "SELL (Target)",
        "symbol": "NIFTY",
        "option_type": "CE",
        "price": 110.0,
        "trailing_sl": 90.0,
        "pnl_rs": 10.0,
        "pnl_pct": 10.0,
        "outcome": "SUCCESS",
        "rsi_1m": "65",
        "supertrend_1m": "BULL",
    }
    eg.write_to_book(csv_name, exit_row)

    print(f"Log written to {csv_name}")
```